

Fellowship of Australian Writers Vic National Literary Awards

The national literary awards will in future be conducted across the year rather than have the concentration of more than ten awards. This is necessary to offset the enormous workload with so many entries needing to be dealt with by volunteers within a four week time slot. Also because of a view from some entrants that spreading the awards would assist with economics for those who wish to enter various genres. The Anne Elder Poetry Award will lead the way. We have also brought the year date forward this now being the 2018 awards.
